Temple Health refers to the health, education and research activities carried out by the affiliates of Temple University Health System (TUHS) and by the Lewis Katz School of Medicine at Temple University.

TUHS neither provides nor controls the provision of health care. All health care is provided by its member organizations or independent health care providers affiliated with TUHS member organizations.

Each TUHS member organization is owned and operated pursuant to its governing documents.

Non-discrimination notice: Fox Chase Cancer Center does not exclude participation in, and no one is denied the benefits of, the delivery of quality medical care on the basis of race, religious creed, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, age, ancestry, color, national origin, physical ability, or source of payment.
How much do good health habits affect your risk for cancer?

More than you might think. Research has shown that staying away from tobacco, eating healthy, getting active and being safe in the sun can lower a person’s risk of cancer. Routine cancer screening raises the chances of finding certain cancers early, when they are most likely to be cured.

Are you part of a group that would like to know more about cancer and cancer prevention?

The Office of Community Outreach offers one hour education sessions where you will learn about:

• cancer risk and easy ways to lower your risk
• ways to prevent and screen for cancer
• common types of cancer and treatment choices

The sessions also offer:

• tips for getting and staying healthy
• ways to add more physical activity into your day
• tools to make healthy food choices

Our sessions are free, and are offered in English or Spanish by our trained health educators. We can tailor the session to the needs of your group. Sessions can be conducted in person or virtually (online).

What are the goals of the sessions?

• To raise awareness about cancer topics
• To raise awareness and use of prevention and screening
• To offer information that helps people make the best choices to improve the health and wellness of themselves and their families
